

Class Schedule April 2010

Saturday, April 10, 9–10:30 am Grass and Shrubs

Property maintenance can be challenging. There are many different kinds of grass and various shrubs that grow in Atlanta and they require care to look good. An expert will provide you information so your property can be the envy of the neighborhood!

Thursday, April 15, 2:30–5:30 pm Orientation

This class is the required first class for approved Atlanta Habitat homebuyers. During this time, you will learn about Atlanta Habitat for Humanity, the requirements for home purchase, the legal issues involved in homeownership, the construction schedule and more.

Saturday, April 17, 9 –10:30 am Trees

Trees can make a yard more beautiful and at the same time, present challenges to homeowners. Come learn about city tree ordinances; the benefits of having trees; and how to care for and maintain the trees on your property.

Tuesday, April 20, 7–8:30 pm Energy Use in Your Home

Having an EarthCraft House gives you an advantage when it comes to conserving energy. Attending this class will give you another one! Understand how your home uses energy, how you are billed for it and how to lower your bills by conserving energy.

Tuesday, April 20, 7–8:30 pm HOME Room II

Learn even more about home maintenance, how to choose a vendor when you can't do the work, and how to access the funds held in your maintenance account. This maintenance class is designed for homebuyers at the end of their educational sequence, or as a maintenance refresher.

Tuesday, April 27, 7–8:30 pm
Introduction to Homeownership This class is designed for Atlanta Habitat homebuyers who have just moved into their new home. It explores the differences between renting and owning a home and discusses the first year home warranty.

For more information, please contact Atlanta Habitat for Humanity at 404-223-5180, or Melissa Klein, Homeowner Education Manager at 404-223-5180, ext 163.

Class topics are subject to change. Home Smart classes are listed at www.atlantahabitat.org.

All classes are held at the Atlanta Habitat for Humanity office.