Executive Women Across Atlanta Make Time to help Two Atlanta Habitat Moms

Wednesday, Nov. 8 @ 9 a.m.

Given that nearly 70 percent of Atlanta Habitat for Humanity homebuyers are women, it is no wonder that some of Atlanta's top women executives will make time this Wednesday to help two single working mothers build their new houses. The "Executive Women's Build" day is part of the nonprofit homebuilder's Atlanta Women's Build, an annual theme-build that brings together women who are dedicated to helping Atlanta Habitat homebuyers. The all-women donors, staff and volunteer team is building two houses for the second year in a row.

The executives will paint and install cabinets, interior trim, windows, doors, and much more. These two houses included, 12 families now have new homes thanks to the women of the Atlanta Women's Build.

Atlanta Habitat for Humanity transforms communities through neighborhood revitalization, education, innovative development and partnerships. As one of the largest affiliates of Habitat for Humanity International, Atlanta Habitat has built more than 1,400 houses—impacting the lives of more than 5,500 family members and 100 neighborhoods—since 1983. In addition to constructing quality, affordable, energy-efficient homes, the nonprofit homebuilder also rehabs existing structures and performs minor repairs for qualifying homeowners. Houses are sold with zero-interest mortgages to first-time homebuyers in Atlanta and South Fulton County.
